Dolly Parton's Threads: My Songs in Symphony Comes to Heinz Hall with the Pittsburgh Symphony on January 26

Announced on "9 to 5" Day, tickets go on sale Wednesday, September 30, and $1 from every ticket supports Dolly Parton's Imagination Library.

PITTSBURGH, PA— The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra (PSO) marks 9/25, a date Dolly Parton fans know well, by announcing Dolly Parton's Threads: My Songs in Symphony, coming to Heinz Hall on Tuesday, January 26, 2027, at 7:30 p.m.

Threads: My Songs in Symphony celebrates the life and legacy of Dolly Parton in an innovative multimedia experience featuring Dolly on screen, leading audiences in a visual-musical journey of her songs, her life, and her stories. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and a cast of guest vocalists and musicians perform orchestrations by David Hamilton. The program includes "Jolene," "Coat of Many Colors," and "I Will Always Love You," along with some of Dolly's personal favorites and a selection from her upcoming Broadway musical.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra has partnered with the Dollywood Foundation so that $1 from every ticket sold supports Dolly Parton's Imagination Library. The program mails free books to children from birth to age five.

Threads: My Songs in Symphony was co-produced by Dolly Parton together with Schirmer Theatrical and Sony Music Publishing.
